

Business Personal Assistant Service---Invitation Letter and F Visa for Visiting China

Want to find local suppliers in China? First of all, you need to contact one of the suppliers on your list and ask them to issue a formal invitation letter to get the F Visa which allows you to stay in China for at most 90 days for your business trip. Some may get the L Visa for traveling to China, but it only allows 30 days' stay.

For getting the invitation letter, you should provide your name on the passport, purpose of visiting China, and needed time to stay. An invitation letter meeting the specified requirement may set you free from rush to and from the embassy.

China Business Engine has provided invitation letter in the following form to clients who order the PA service for them to conduct business activities in China:
